

A square wooden board with a decorative geometric pattern. The board is made of light-colored wood with a visible grain. The pattern consists of a central square area of reddish-brown cork, surrounded by a border of wood strips. The border is composed of four parallel strips on each side, with the inner two strips forming a diamond or chevron pattern. Two white arrows indicate the dimensions of the board: a vertical arrow pointing upwards from the top edge to the center of the board, and a horizontal arrow pointing from the center of the board to the right edge. Both arrows are labeled with the text "23-5/8 in." in a bold, white font.
