CAMPO™ KITCHEN COLLECTION

The Campo™ Collection is named for the Piazza del Campo in Siena, Italy. Here a vast system of conduits and aqueducts, built in 1419, converged in the famous Fonte Gaia, or Fountain of the World. Campo carries through this inspiration in every detail. From the base of the neck, to the crosshatch knurling on the spout, to handles modeled after valve wheels, Campo brilliantly reimagines the industrial design system used in conduits. Campo's clean, minimalist design is a statement-making stand-out, perfect for kitchens with modern or transitional panache.
